

“Not All Family Is Blood”

Blood is family you see
But not all family is blood to me
Some family is given and some you choose
But neither are people I could ever lose

Family is laughter and love and care
It's having moments and memories we will always share
Through highs and lows we stand hand in hand
The bond we have, an unbreakable strand

You are my treasure my comfort my home
I will always need you, even when I'm grown
When I'm with you I feel safe
In your arms, in every embrace

If I ever feel I'm on my own
I think of you to know I'm not alone
When I look in the mirror, I see you in me
From my eyes and my smile, to the dimples on my cheeks

Blood is family you see
But not all family is blood to me
Our heartbeats together make a timeless song
In your love I am anchored where I truly belong
