

Poem Title: Family

In the heart of our home, where laughter lives,
Through all the chaos, it's love that gives.
A shoulder to lean on, a hand to hold,
Stories shared, both new and old.

In simple meals and quiet nights,
In shared whispers and joyful delights.
Family's a bond that time can't sever,
A tapestry woven, together forever.

Through ups and downs, we stand as one,
No matter the storm, we've already won.
In every heartbeat, in every sigh,
Family's the reason we reach for the sky.
